Laranda, Viletta.
Neapolitan captive, interesting narrative of the captivity and sufferings of Miss Viletta Laranda, a native of Naples, who, with a brother, was a passenger on board a Neapolitan vessel wrecked near Oran, on the Barbary coast, September 1829, and who soon after was unfortunately made a captive of by a wandering clan of Bedowen Arabs, on their return from Algiers to the deserts, and eleven months after providentially rescued from barbarian bondage by the commander of a detached regiment of the victorious French Army. Communicated by an officer of respectable rank in the army, to his friend in Paris. 3d ed. New-York, C. C. Henderson, 1830.
